Dear Mr. Nethery,

It is, once again, my pleasure to present you and your employees this token of our appreciation for all that you have done for our company in 2005. The tremendous demands that were put on your company during the long drawn out hurricane season by FEMA and your customer base had to have been the most difficult times your company has been through. The good news is that you survived it, and because your company did, our company did as well. Your entire company pulled together as a team and delivered the great service that we have become accustomed to over the years with diligence and a cheerful attitude under the most difficult of circumstances. I would like to thank you on behalf of my company and myself personally for making it possible for us to operate in all the areas that you service that were so badly damaged during these tough months. I would be remiss if I did not recognize Larry Rice and his outstanding performance during this difficult time. I received many compliments on Larry and his cohorts from our South Florida region that was devastated during hurricane Wilma in October. We were able to obtain several emergency fuel tanks for Southeastern Freight Lines employees to get gas from to go back and forth to work. These tanks would have been useless had your devoted employees not gone the extra mile to obtain fuel for these tanks, after working all night and covering some 120 miles of disrupted highways, to put fuel in each of these three tanks. Your service comes with my highest and most well deserved recommendation. Thank you again for all your company does for Southeastern Freight Lines.

Sincerely,

Chip Sheely

Dear Mr. Nethery:

Congratulations! Your firm was nominated for a 2005 Quality Supplier Award (QSA), a noteworthy achievement. Although your company was not selected as a QSA recipient, we are pleased to present your company with the enclosed QSA Finalist Plaque to underscore this supply chain management achievement. Your team should be very proud of its efforts and accomplishments. We certainly are.

Your company was nominated for QSA recognition by individuals within the Postal Service who have worked closely with you and are familiar with your performance on USPS contract number 2DPSCM-03-P-2179 in helping the Postal Service benefit from supply chain management best practices during 2005. As you may know, supply chain management efforts have been very successful in providing positive bottom line and performance results that ultimately help the Postal Service more effectively achieve its mission of providing mail service to the American public.

The QSA program focuses on recognizing suppliers who have truly made a significant impact towards successfully helping the Postal Service benefit from supply chain management best practices. Yours was one of the firms chosen as a QSA Finalist.

I extend my personal thanks to you and your employees for your performance and cooperative business relationship with the Postal Service during 2005. We hope you will continue to be an important link in our supply chain and that your interest in customer satisfaction, continuous improvement, and supplier/customer relationships will help us meet future challenges together.

Sincerely,
